

EVAN DUNNE

Evan is currently a senior here at George Mason studying Government and International Politics. He grew up in sunny Orange County, California with ambitions to see how the other coast lived. What channeled him into fitness was a love for sports, being active and an improved self-confidence. He holds a personal training certification through The American Council of Exercise (ACE) where he hopes to show others how to balance health and fitness into a sustained lifestyle.

Outside of fitness, he can be found running around Capitol Hill or helping others, since positive vibes keep the dreams alive.
